

JERUSALEM IN HANDS OF THE ALLIES

STATE CHARGES
BURLEIGH WITH
FAVORING HALL

Moves for Change of Venue on Ground Community Knows Too Much About Case

DEFENSE QUESTIONED
COURT'S JURISDICTION

Urged That Failure to Call Grand Jury has Removed Matter
From Nuesse's Hands

The state late this afternoon
filed an affidavit of prejudice
against Judge W. L. Nuesse of the District court. Judge Nuesse then announced he would call Judge J. A. Coffey of Jamestown and the case would open Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock as scheduled.

Holding that the burden of proof of prejudice was on the side of the party making the motion for a change of venue, and that such proof had not been established, Judge W. L. Nuesse
this afternoon denied the state's motion for a change of venue in the Hall case.

Attorney W. H. Stutsman, representing Secretary of State Hall, in an affidavit in opposition to a change of venue said: "Affiant has read all the articles touching upon preliminary hearing and the prosecution of this action, appearing in the Bismarck Tribune, and in his opinion none of the said articles is in anywise unfair to the state, or misrepresents any of the facts or evidence produced in the preliminary hearing; but the same
had been a fair and impartial resume of said proceedings, and has not influenced the people of Burleigh county
against the state."

Attorney Stutsman laid special stress upon the fact that all of the evidence introduced at the preliminary hearing was on the side of the prosecution; that no evidence was presented by the defense and that the defendant did not take the stand, and that the publication of the state's evidence upon the strength of which the defendant was held could not well be held to prejudice the state's case. He further argued that any condition existing in Burleigh county with regard to friendship for Thomas Hall would be found to prevail in any other county in North Dakota.

Following the denial of the motion for a change of venue, the state moved for a continuance until Wednesday morning, advising that both the attorney general and his assistant had considerable business in supreme court. Judge Nuesse ordered a 15-minute recess, after which he might learn from State's Attorney McCurdy whether there was any case which could be advanced on the calendar to fill the void. Judge Nuesse announced his opposition to a continuance unless other grist could be found to keep the court occupied.

Because Attorney General Langer
and Assistant Attorney General Brennan find that "most everybody in Burleigh county reads the Bismarck Tribune, and because the Bismarck Tribune carried very full and complete reports of the preliminary hearing of Secretary of State Hall, the state, upon the arraignment of the state, upon a charge of embargo of the Hall on an affidavit in which it expressed its belief that the state could not get a fair and impartial trial in Burleigh county and demanded a change of venue.

"We have reason to believe that the people of Bismarck and Burleigh county are so prejudiced against the state as to prevent the state from getting a fair and impartial trial," said the attorney general and his assistant in their affidavit. They referred to the constant publicity which has been given the arrest of the secretary of state and to subsequent proceedings,
"especially the Bismarck Tribune, a paper of large circulation in Burleigh county, has given wide publicity to the hearing, with facts and figures in minute detail from day to day." The state felt that because of this fact there could not be obtained a jury in Burleigh county which had not already formed an opinion.

The state commented upon Secretary of State Hall's long residence in Bismarck and the many expressions upon the question of his guilt or innocence which it alleged had been made since his arrest. The court, upon request of Attorney W. H. Stuts-man, for the defense, adjourned court until 1 o'clock this afternoon, in order that the defense might submit af-

CAMP DODGE READY
FOR 24,000 MORE MEN

Camp Dodge, Ia., Dec. 10—Colonel William M. Newman, chief mustering officer of the cantonment, announced today that Provost Marshal General Crowder had notified the adjutant general at Washington that Camp Dodge was ready to receive 24,000
more men.

This was taken as another indication of an early call for the final increment from North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa and parts of Illinois.

Whitlock Tells Story
Of German Atrocities
As Practiced in Belgium

BRAND WHITLOCK

Special Dispatch from
MILTON BRONNER

Of Our Washington Bureau

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, is on official record charging the Germans with the crimes of massacring civilians, using non-combatant natives as shields for their advancing troops, and deporting thousands upon thousands of Belgians into virtual slavery in Germany.

His reports to that effect, made while he was still at Brussels, are on file in the archives of the state department. They add the last testimony—if proof were needed—that all of the atrocities charged up to the Huns are based upon hideous facts and not merely upon the inflated imagination of hostile populations.

Whitlock in his capacity as a diplomat of a power, still at that time at peace with Germany, reported facts to his superior officers. They did not want propaganda stories either for or against anyone. Whitlock wanted to know what was going on in Belgium.

Whitlock reported the news with as much accuracy as it was possible for him to get it. And he got it first-hand because the American legation was the clearing house through which the victims of the Huns passed.

For a long time Whitlock's reports have been locked up. Now they are released, forming part of a 94-page book on "German War Practices," issued by George Croel's Committee on Public Information, and edited by Prof. D. C. Munro of Princeton University.

Whitlock's first dispatches regarding the cruelties of the Germans were sent in 1914 when the Kaiser's legions were spreading death and terror before them.

aroused. Mrs. Wensel's condition was so serious that it became necessary to call a physician.

GERMANS PLAN
MIGHTY DRIVE
ON WEST FRONT

Tentons Have Massed the Greatest Army on French Line
Since War Started

SECRETARY BAKER IN APPEAL STATES CASE

Counter Move Has Won Back One-third of Ground Lost in the Byng Offensive

TAKE 200 PRISONERS.
Berlin, Dec. 10.—Hungarian infantry in the Plave Delta yesterday stormed the Italian bridgehead on the Sile river, east of Capezio, and took prisoners more than 200 Italians, it was officially announced today by the German war office.

Military officials of the central powers have signed an armistice
with the Russian and Rumanian armies on the Rumanian front, between the Dniester river and the mouth of the Danube, the war office officially announced today.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Germany has massed on the western front her greatest army of the war. Secretary of War Baker declared in his weekly war review made public today. To meet this menace the United States must speed up its military preparations, the secretary adds, with a warning that the enemy is preparing to put into execution in France plans he has been maturing since the defeat of the Russian armies at Tannenberg
early in the war. The peace negotiations with Russia have permitted the massing of men on the western front
for that purpose.

"The united nation must stand squarely behind our soldiers," the secretary says. "It is not sufficient to prepare to fight. We must prepare to win."

The review asserts the German counter offensive on the Cambrai front has been successful in winning back less than one-third of the territory captured by General Byng. The statement also asserts that American engineer troops "exchanging shovels for rifles, fought off the enemy, side by side with the British."

The lesson of the German exhibition of strength is then taken up.

This German parring thrust, the most powerful and successful blow aimed at the British during the last two and a half years, coming as it did, immediately after the British victory in the same area, serves to emphasize the reviving strength of the Germans in the west.

"We must recognize plainly the situation the eastern theater has brought about a very decided change in the strategic possibilities of the military situation in the west."

"Germany, by leaving only skeleton divisions in the western area, by concentrating all available guns and munitions in the west, has been able to mass a relatively greater force than she has ever been able to mobilize
in France in the past."

"This explains the success which the enemy was able to achieve in driving the British back from Cambrai. It would not do for us to minimize its importance."

"For a long time past she has been preparing his plans for just such eventualities which would arise when Russia entered upon negotiations for a separate peace."

"The magnitude of the task before us can be more fully realized when measured by the success the enemy is able to regain."

Speed Up Efforts.
"It means we must speed up our efforts. The united nation must stand squarely behind the soldiers. It is not sufficient to prepare to fight; we must prepare to win."

The review also hints at an expected German thrust against the French front. The statement describes events on the Italian front without adding to the public information as to what was transpiring there, or an attempt to predict the outcome of various Austro-German thrusts. It adds significantly:

"Our declaration of war against Austria-Hungary now associates us immediately with the struggle going on in Italy."

Regarding the struggle going on the Russian front, the statement says
the agreement covers the entire line
"from the Baltic to the Black sea, as well as the region of the Caucasus."

CITY TAKEN.
London, Dec. 10.—Bonar Law, chancellor of the exchequer, announced in the house of commons
today that Jerusalem, after being surrounded on all sides by British troops, had surrendered.

London, Dec. 10.—The counter revolution in southeastern Russia, under the leadership of Generals Kaledines, Dutof, and Korniloff, apparently is aimed at seizing the authority in that region, and in cutting off food supplies from Siberia. According to the proclamation of the Bolshevik government, General Kaledines' forces are menacing Ekaterinoslav, Kharkov and Moscow. In the province of Orenburg, the Bolsheviks have been overthrown by General Dutof.

Tchelninsk, an important railway center in Northeastern Orenburg, is besieged by General Dutof's troops.
In the Caucasus, General Karauloff is attacking Tchetcheney and Ingush.

The proclamation says that the "enemies of the people" have undertaken a last attempt to destroy a cause of peace and says that the constitutional democratic party is providing the means for the revolt.

WAR SUMMARY.
(By Associated Press)

Jerusalem, the Holy City of the Christian religion for more than 1,500 years in Moslem hands, has finally been wrested from the Turks. It has surrendered after being surrounded by the victorious Palestine army.

The ultimate fall of Jerusalem has been considered virtually assured since the British took Jaffa, the city's seaport in mid November, and shortly afterwards pushed within sight of Jerusalem. In northern Italy the Austro-German efforts to penetrate the Italian mountain barrier have been suspended but apparently the attempt to break the Italian line is being renewed along the Plave. Berlin reports a success near the mouth of the river,
about eight miles from the Adriatic,
and three miles west of the main river bed.

Official announcement is made by Berlin that the signing of an armistice with the Russian-Rumanian army on the Rumanian front, the agreement
embracing the line from the Dniester
to the mouth of the Danube.

Civil war has broken out in Russia and the Bolshevik regime apparently will be put to the test. The Petrograd government has issued a proclamation announcing that General Kaledines, Korniloff and Dutof have begun a revolt in southeastern European Russia.

The Bolshevik announcement declares that the constitutional democrats are assisting the Hetmen of the Don Cossacks and his fellow-military leaders who are said to aim at cutting off food supplies and in seizing power from the Black sea to the Ural mountains as well as in the Caucasus.
Bolshevik troops have been ordered to take the field against the counter-revolutionists.

TEN DIE FROM COLD.
Columbus, O., Dec. 10.—With temperatures ranging from two to eight degrees below zero in all sections of the state, Ohio today experienced the coldest December weather since 1880.

Three deaths at Cleveland,
three at Springfield, and four at Youngstown, were reported due to excessive cold. Three other persons are probably frozen, thousands suffering from cold and of gas pressure too low for cooking
was reported from Youngstown.

For continued and intense cold considering the period of the year, the temperatures of the past four days are without equal in the history of the local weather bureau station.
When a minimum temperature of -28
degrees was recorded this morning,
another low record was established,
the nearest approach being -24 degrees on Dec. 10, 1906.

sight. He predicts continued cold tonight and Tuesday, followed by ris-

BISMARCK EIGHTH GRADE BOY WRITES FROM MILLS

Advises Class Mates not to be Surprised if Next Letter Comes From France

Pupils of the North Ward school were delighted last week to receive a letter from John William Nelson, Co. A, 164th Infantry, 41st division, Camp Mills Hempstead, L. I., who was in the eighth grade of the public schools when he enlisted last spring with Bismarck's pioneer company in the First North Dakota. Mr. Nelson's letter is exceptional in that it came through with no mark of censoring. It was read to his class-mates last week, and each of the students has promised to write Mr. Nelson a letter, which probably will follow him to France.

Addressing his letter to the young people of the high school, Mr. Nelson says: "We are now in Camp Mills, Hempstead, N. Y. We arrived here from Camp Greene about half a month ago. The people in the south, around Charlotte, N. C., were very good to the soldiers and hated to see the national guard leave there. We had a fine camp there and fine drilling grounds, and we were only drilling eight hours a day.

"Since we left Bismarck we have seen some pretty sights. On the way from Charlotte to New York we went through Washington, D. C., and the Red Cross met us there and gave us a big feed. I also saw the White House all lighted up, and it was certainly a pretty sight. When we went from New Jersey to New York we passed through a big tube about a mile long and we went through there about 70 miles an hour. This tunnel was about 300 feet under the surface of the Hudson river. We also saw the Brooklyn bridge.

"The camp here is not as nice as Camp Greene. All you see here in the sky are aeroplanes. It is fun to watch them loop the loop and practice falling. There is not much else to tell you except not to be surprised if you hear we are in France in about six weeks."

HUNDREDS PAY LAST RESPECTS

and waking, of buying and selling, or in the smooth running of the bodily machinery. The animal has that in a larger measure perhaps than we ourselves. Humanity has a large world of living of which the animal world knows nothing. Its vistas open wide and still wider at the progress of the soul. But the soul only progresses as the functions are exercised. And so we only truly live as we live into the experiences of human life and with a large and sympathetic interest. Sympathy—suffering together. How our world is enlarged by this act. We become possessors of not only our own life, enlarged by the proper functioning of the parts thereof, but of the life of the one sympathized with. Some men find interest in the study of the stars, and gaze in wonder and increasing awe at the grandeur and beauty of the heavens. And some delve in the depths of the sea and open the great wonders of the deep. But how much more wonderful is the study of man. His structure, his life, his thoughts, his ambitions, his successes and his failures. To my mind one strong characteristic of your friend is found here. He lived a large life, in that he lived in the life of others with sympathetic appreciation of the limitations as well as of the powers of his friends. The tribute that I would pay in words you are paying with living and loving power as you gather here by the side of all that is mortal of your friend. And yet may we not all pay him even a more fitting tribute, in accepting the ideal which he tried to fill. This great world, with its never-ending succession of problems, brings before us hour by hour objects of sympathy and love. The cry of the needy and the distressed is often heard. May it ever reach our ears. The struggling ambitions of the young should receive our attention, and the discouragements of the old should bring response. And then life will be richer by far than of old.

"We bid him a loving farewell, and as we kneel by his bier we will pray that:

"For a space his tired body,
Lies with feet toward the dawn;
Till there breaks the last and brightest Easter morn."

And that his soul, freed from limitations and environment, shall find in that other world still large fields for the loving sympathy that found so splendid an expression in this life."

STATE CHARGES BURLEIGH

Justice setting forth his views of the motion for a change of venue.

The state's request that the case be tried in some other county came after the jurisdiction of the court had been formally attacked in a plea at bar from the defense, which held that inasmuch as the required number of citizens of Burleigh county had not been returned for a grand jury, and since the judge of this court had declined to call such grand jury, and the defendant therefore had not been indicted by such grand jury, the court had no jurisdiction over the case.

The state demurred to the plea as an improper return; sustained the action of the court in denying a grand jury, on the ground that the petitions requesting a grand jury had not been filed with the court more than 15 days preceding the next regular term, and argued that the court of Burleigh county has jurisdiction.

Judge Nusselt sustained the demurrer. Both motions, together with the original petitions calling for a grand jury and Judge Nusselt's reply to H. A. Thompson, Anton Beer and Clinton C. Swett, who circulated the petitions, will go into the record.

Fifteen years ago we should have laughed at the idea of any one going to school to learn how to keep well. To-day the entire country is, figuratively speaking, going to school to learn how to resist and master tuberculosis, which menaces the American army and threatens the man power of the nation.

We are going to school to study this disease, its prevention and cure, because it has suddenly assumed national importance. It has caused thousands of our men to be rejected from the army. Yet if far visioned men and women had not wanted a steady and systematic war against it for years before this there could be no movement of popular enlightenment and education to-day.

The anti-tuberculosis movement has passed the kindergarten and elementary days because these men and women have been everlastingly on their job. They have used every legitimate method of arresting attention. Fifteen years ago little was known about consumption. To-day, as a result of their work, every school child has a chance to learn how to resist it.

The movement has been carried on along lines of popular education. Tuberculosis is a disease of the masses. People of every race, color, age, creed and condition have been urged to join the fight against it. Advertising and popular publicity methods have been used in the campaign. The human interest note has been struck incessantly.

The person who won't attend a lecture may go to a "movie." So those back of the campaign have made the tuberculosis "movie" popular. Posters have featured the infectiousness of the disease. Health exhibits have presented the facts in such a way that they cannot be forgotten. Literature printed in every language has been put into the hands of foreigners.

But the schools are the most fruitful ground for planting the seed of information. Fresh air classes have shown how the tuberculous child can be cured. In open window classes anemic children have been saved from the disease. The youngsters themselves have become preachers of the gospel of good health.

Now, as Modern Health Crusaders, they are pledging themselves to certain health "chores" and to the protection of their own and the community's health.

More than 100,000 crusaders are banded together under the emblem of the Double Red Cross, promising to breathe fresh air, sleep with open windows and take outdoor exercise. If such an army had been formed ten or fifteen years ago experts agree that fewer men would be rejected from military service to-day.

The crusaders' programme for December includes the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals. So thousands of children are now working like Trojans to help sell the stickers. They have joined the 500,000 "brown-ups" who are acting as seal agents, thus becoming missionaries in the field.

The Red Cross Christmas Seal is another link in the chain of educational publicity. To-day its success is regarded by the American Red Cross and the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis as vital to the welfare of the country in this crisis.

The drive for a $3,000,000 tuberculosis war fund represents the concentrated energy of an army of workers, and on its results depend the future of thousands of our soldiers as well as of men rejected from national service.

case, and he does not believe the people of Burleigh county have become so prejudiced that the state could not have a fair trial.

The affiant states that nothing he has read in the newspapers, including the Bismarck Tribune, and all of which articles have been read by him as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, and that he had heard no one express an opinion as to such guilt or innocence due to having read the newspapers, and that he believes the state and defendant each can have a fair and impartial trial in Burleigh county.

NORTH DAKOTA FREES MAN WANTED IN KANSAS AS ARSON DEFENDANT

James Saman, Liberated from Penitentiary Saturday, Turned Over to Kansas City

James Saman, alias James Shannon, committed for 2 1/2 years from Fargo, walked out of the state penitentiary upon the completion of 20 months Saturday into the arms of Chief Hutchinson, who turned him over to Sheriff J. A. Wolfe of Kansas City. Saman is wanted in Kansas City on a charge of arson, the alleged crime having been committed four years ago. The rented dwelling in which the Samans were residing was burned after it is claimed, most of their furniture had been removed. Saman's mother pleaded guilty to arson and served a year in the Kansas state penitentiary. Saman and his wife escaped from the police of Kansas City, Mo., while the authorities on the other side of the river were obtaining a fugitive warrant.

view "Cemetery." This advertisement in the morning papers called attention to still another problem; finding men to dig graves for the hundreds of victims.

Health authorities, working in co-operation with the general relief committee made it plain that burial must not be delayed.

Laborers were assigned to the cemeteries and men who had never expected to do that sort of work assisted in the task.

Little groups of sorrowful people went silently to the cemeteries adjacent to the Richmond district utterly wiped out by flames, and laid away their dead without friends in attendance and with the commitment rites omitted.

There were not enough ministers to officiate for all, not enough bearers and not enough hearses. One general service was held for all.

Revised figures were issued here to-day regarding casualties resulting from the explosion as follows:

Known dead, 1,200.
Unaccounted for, 2,700.
Dead, which have been identified, 900.
Wounded, 8,000.
Nameless, 25,000.

After the Pickton had gone down, it was officially announced, that there was absolutely no danger now of further explosions in the harbor.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER (Established 1873)

WHICH WILL YE?
The room is only softly lighted by the ruddy glow of the lowering grate fire. Even the tick of the clock seems hushed, and over all is the peace and silence of the end of a day. It is the hour when you are wont to sum up the effort and results of another brief span in your life, but, this night, you feel yourself such a little help less, forgotten speck among the many doings of the big world, your work, your successes, all your affairs so much like mere bubbles on the ocean of the irresistible flood outside that moves on and on towards God's port pose!

Across the hearth from you sits the dear, tired wife, gently rocking, with your wee baby so blissfully sleeping on her bosom. Your sweet little daughter of only six years of age sits up in her bed, her eyes, like those of a fairy on your knee, and her back upstairs to her crib die-bed. Yes, you have peace, rest, content, love, all the blessings of home happiness; and you drowsily nod over Brand Whitlock's story of Belgium that's lying on your knees.

The door is banged open, and there rushes in a gang of helmeted soldiers. Their faces are the faces of brutes. Their red eyes blaze with the passion of loot and lust. Their bulging mouths slaver with the dregs of rum. They bind you fast in your chair. They bayonet your baby son to the mantelpiece. A WARNING TO ALL ENEMIES OF CULTURED GERMANY. They strip the struggling, blood-splattered infant's mother, YOUR WIFE, and make such a plaything of her as would draw pity from the meanest fiend in hell.

You see it all, ALL! O God! All the awful, shameful details! and as they throw her, bruised and dishonored, into the corner where the children piled their playthings, to moan and moan, you pray for the blessing of death upon her. They did not bind your eyes for SEEING ALL, you, too, will be a warning to the enemies of Germany.

The room clears, and there comes in a procession of hundreds and hundreds of children, to circle about you and pass out again, as directed by your little daughter. Their faces are the faces of the aged. Their eyes have the fixed stare of the dead. Their fluttering rags disclose protruding ribs and hip bones. Their fleshless shanks show the blisters that the frost makes. They roll their swollen tongues behind their sunken cheeks, as if they would eat. They come with a blast of moans such as the lost, hopeless souls send forth while driven, ever on and on, through the awful, dark abysses of the inferno. It is it that your little daughter be leader of such a host; for, she is the perfect com posite of that starving, freezing, help less, lost army of ghastly children.

They're gone! And now the fire over your fireplace drips with blood in which these words from Blacklock's official report are painted on:

"But whether their hands were cut off or not, whether they were impaled on bayonets or not, children were shot down by military order in cold blood. In the awful crime of the Rock of Bayard, there overlooking the Meuse below Dinant, infants in their cradles, arms were shot without mercy. Among the victims were babies in arms, boys and girls, fathers and mothers of families, even old men."

It was there that 12 children under the age of six perished from the fire of the executioners, six of them as they lay in their mother's arms.

"The child Fievet, three weeks old;

Perhaps it may be months old. And Jean, 18 months old. And Marthe, two years old. And Clara Struway, two years and six months.

All see as the food drips and drips from the mirrors frame some merciless, unseen hand is writing in THE NAMES OF YOUR BOY AND GIRL. Executed without mercy shot in their mother's arms, as a warning to the enemies of Germany!

Awake man! Awake, husband and father! It is not all a dream. Your Belgian brother SAW all that, EN DURED all that!

A dream? IT IS A HORRID AC TUALITY, to stop the rush of which upon our homes the boys in khaki, blue and gray, are dying in the gory mud of Flanders.

Awake, husbands, fathers, sons, brothers! WILL YE FIGHT? WILL YE FAY? Will ye sacrifice?

OR WOULD YE SIT BOUND IN THE DREAMS OF YOUR HOMES WITH THE AWFUL PANORAMA OF YOUR DEAR ONES' AGONY ALL BEFORE YOUR EYES?

WHITE WASHING PARTIES.
This thing of rushing into print with resolutions defending the patriotism of the people of North Dakota when over Townley, Frazier or any of their crew, suffer a blow from the rebound of things they preached until public sentiment called a halt is becoming ridiculous.

The latest "resolution" comes from the state council of defense. It was drawn up by Chairman Dorr Carroll of Minot, with the assistance of Governor Frazier, Herbert G. Gaston, editor of Townley's Courier-News and two reporters employed on Townley's paper. And it was voted through by a handful of employees of state in stitutions, which Governor Frazier and Mr. Townley have absolute control. The inspiration of this resolution was an article, largely made up of lies, which had appeared as an interview in the New York Herald Tribune which was copied by the St. Paul Dispatch, the Fargo Forum and other northwestern papers. This interview dealt almost entirely with the activities of Mr. Townley and with the neutral attitude of Governor Frazier and other members of the Townley administration toward all things patriotic. There was nothing in the interview which was new to the citizens of North Dakota. The one extreme statement reflecting on the people of North Dakota was that their patriotism had been reduced to a chaotic condition through the activities of Mr. Townley. Anyone who followed the course of the O'Hare trial must acknowledge this to be true in sections where Townley's leadership has been blindly accepted.

The Tribune always has maintained and maintains now that the PEOPLE of North Dakota are loyal and patri otic. Their patriotism and loyalty never have been questioned. The Tribune does not consider Governor Frazier the PEOPLE of North Dakota nor representative of them. Nor does it so consider Mr. Townley. The Tribune has not felt that North Dakota people in the mass have suffered any more through the machinations of Mr. Townley than have the people of Wisconsin because they have a La Follette or the people of Missouri because they have a Stone, or our own people because we have a Gronna.

Townley is not even a North Dakota. His legal residence is now in St. Paul. If any state or community must answer for Mr. Townley they are Minnesota and St. Paul. Why not let their state defense council do the whitewashing? North Dakota's defense council will have outlived its usefulness when it descends to trucking for the favor of Governor Frazier. It is true that Governor Frazier made the state defense council and that he has the power to unmake it, but if this organization is created solely as a defender of Governor Frazier and A. C. Townley, when such expressions of public sentiment as the conviction of Kate Richards O'Hare give them renewed proof of the need for such defense, the sooner it is unmade the better for the safety of North Dakota.

It is an insult to the intelligence of North Dakota for the defense council and other organization to go into such a thing with such a resolution as was passed Saturday evening by a handful of state employees. There were no representatives at that meeting but three representative business men of the state and one of these was Dorr Carroll of Minot, chairman, and the other two were Bismarck citizens who had been invited in. The proceeding was very similar to others which Townley has indulged in to procure endorsement for himself and his administration when pal a condemnation became so strong that some camouflage was found necessary.

One of Season Treats At Auditorium Tomorrow

An old-fashioned brother, a family pile and an innocent young sister play prominent parts in the production of the erring son in "Turn to the Right" to be presented at the Auditorium Tuesday evening.

An old-fashioned mother, a family pile and an innocent young sister play prominent parts in the production of the erring son in "Turn to the Right" to be presented at the Auditorium Tuesday evening.

If there is any person in Bismarck who enjoyed "The Fortune Hunter," "Way Down East," "The Old Homestead," and plays of that type, and who has not yet seen "Turn to the Right," he is depriving himself of a genuine treat. It is a play of the honest, homespun variety with a story that goes straight to the heart, comedy that sways the audience from smiles to laughter and pathos that cause a frequent swelling in the region of one's Adam's apple. It is not surprising that it has broken records wherever it has been presented.

Though the advance sale for the performance tonight is very heavy there is a good selection of seats at all prices

DELAY OF TRAINS KEEP MANY FROM GRAIN MEETING

Sessions Begun This Morning With See Bigger Attendance This Afternoon

CHIEF OF BUREAU OF MARKETS ATTENDING

Charles J. Brand Principal Representative of Federal Government at Conference

The lateness of morning trains delayed through the severe cold, resulted in a comparatively small attendance for the conference on the federal grain grades which commenced in the house chamber at 10:30 this morning, with Charles J. Brand, chief of the United States bureau of markets, here as a direct representative of the government.

The state is represented by the North Dakota railway commission, Dr. E. F. Ladd, chief of the North Dakota grading and inspection service, Deputy Chief Inspector J. A. McGoern, Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor John N. Hagan and other officers.

Many elevator men and grain growers from the Slope country came in last night. Others arrived during the day on No. 4 from the west and on No. 3 from points to the east. It is anticipated that 200 will be in attendance when the afternoon session is called to order.

Brand Defends Grades.
Mr. Brand is defending the federal grades, which are generally obnoxious to North Dakota grain growers and grain buyers. Mr. Brand points to the fact that of 25,000 cars of 1917 wheat received at the Minneapolis terminals during the last four months 11,474 cars graded No. 1 northern, while in 1916 only 5.1 per cent of North Dakota's wheat graded No. 1 hard, which corresponds to the present No. 1 northern.

Dr. F. F. Ladd, Railway Commissioner Black and others have called Mr. Brand's attention to the fact that the 1917 wheat, what there is of it, is an exceptional crop, and that a much higher percentage of it and wheat was harvested than in any other year in the state's history. The 1916 wheat crop, as everyone will readily recall, was exceptionally poor. The grain was light and shrunken due to rust and a very little of it graded as No. 1 hard. Under the new rule probably none of it would have sold as No. 1 northern, it is claimed.

Mr. Brand still contends, however, that the 1917 grades are more favorable to the farmer than were the old grades of 1916. He holds that only 17 per cent of the 1917 crop would have graded No. 1 hard under the old regulations, while under the new federal grades 37 per cent of the wheat is going into a corresponding grade.

Basin of Grades.
The basis of the new federal grades, states Mr. Brand, is data covering crops from 1911 to 1916 inclusive. The grades were adopted, he stated, to give good farmers a premium on good wheat.

Record Adopted.
Prior to the Fargo hearing, the farmers on Saturday morning went into executive session with Dr. Ladd and adopted a series of questions and answers as expressing their views of the situation. After some discussion, with the chief of the bureau of markets the questions and answers were adopted as a portion of the formal action of the conference and were embodied in the record which will go in to Washington.

They are as follows:
Q. Shall the class designation common and red durum wheat be changed, and if so, what should be substituted?
A. The test weights of durum should be the same as the spring grades.
Q. Shall the subclass red spring humpback in class 1, and red durum in class 2, be eliminated?
A. The red spring humpback subclass in class 1 should be eliminated.
Q. The official standards specify that "any grain which when free from dockage contains more than 6 per

SOCIETY

Daughters of Isabelle Organized Here
With Charter Membership of Fifty

With a charter membership of fifty, the Daughters of Isabelle organization was organized here Sunday. This new organization will be known as the Court of the Immaculate Conception No. 322. The work was put on by the Fargo team composed of Mrs. C. O. Smith, Mrs. William Fortune, Mrs. Schas. Mrs. Lucy, Mrs. O'Connor, Mrs. Fleming and Miss Lucy Curran who arrived in the city Sunday morning from Dickinson, where they instituted a similar organization. The organization features were supplemented by a banquet at the McKenzie hotel with covers for 50.

Mrs. Elizabeth Geiermann heads a new court as grand regent. The other officers are: vice grand regent, Mrs. Max Kuntz; financial secretary, Mrs. Nell Hollman; historian, Mrs. Clara Bannion; treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Schaefer; prop. ess, Mrs. Frances Dolan; secretary, Mrs. Emanuel Brown; sergeant, Mrs. W. D. McIntyre; organist, Mrs. Louis Carufel; chaplain Father Hiltner; trustees, Mrs. J. D. Heald, Mrs. William Laist, Mrs. S. S. Clifford, Mrs. F. B. Strauss, Mrs. T. E. Flaherty and Mrs. Al Barrett.

SKIRTS TO FEATURE THE
1918 SPRING GARMENTS

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 10.—The sixteenth annual convention of the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' association closed here today. Styles for the spring season of 1918 are in accordance with the government recommendations for the use of very small yardage, to conserve the wool supply. Shorter and tighter skirts and plainer garments of all kinds are to be made. Suits will emphasize the narrow, straight lines.

You Can't Beat the delicious wheat and barley flavor of Grape-Nuts FOOD

Some of the short, youthful models show ripple effects and are slightly shaped. Another type is the short and straight lined tailored suit. Some very smart styles for youthful figures in eons and lux suits will be shown. Vests and vest effects will be a feature of the suit styles. In skirts the most popular style will be the straight line tailored skirt with pockets. Other skirts will be shown with draped and tunic effects. Coat styles will not change much. Collars will be of the convertible type, to be worn open, or rolled high about the neck. Sleeves will be set in, raglan and kimono styles.

WHOLE NATION WORKS AND HOPES FOR
MERRY CHRISTMAS FOR THE SAMMIES

Christmas Tree in Every Cantonment and a Gift—at Least One—for Every Boy in Khaki Is Red Cross Program

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—Santa Claus for the boys in khaki will be this year a new kind of good fairy. He will be the good will of the many for the few—the thought of the community, during the best of all holidays, of the boys who wear the uniform of Uncle Sam and fight for their country.

In the first place, there is the great and good Red Cross at work for the soldiers' Christmas. That organization has decided to place a Christmas tree in every army camp in the country.

The Red Cross, too, plans to provide for every soldier a Christmas packet which the women of the country have for weeks been diligently working to prepare.

The official, dignified United States army will play Santa to the boys and his gift will be the substantial and welcome one of a bully dinner for the boys who remain in the camp on Christmas day. And the army cook is a corker and knows what the boys like. Some 40 per cent of the boys in some of the cantonments will have 24-hour leave, beginning the night before Christmas.

The Y. M. C. A. is laying elaborate plans to entertain the boys during the holiday week in the cantonments. Every training camp in the country has some sort of Y. M. C. A. center.

These centers will be the scenes of a round of "parties" during holiday week. There will be movies, pageants, singing and entertainments by professionals and there will be small "home" Christmas trees and gifts in these Y. M. C. A. centers. Churches in cities near the different cantonments are planning to "mother" groups of the boys. Clubs, schools, newspapers and many organizations are helping to give the soldiers a merry Christmas and there is enough for all to do.

In New York a large organization of women will entertain several thousand men at a dinner prepared by army cooks, given in one of the armories and served by young women volunteers. Before the dinner there will be a band concert and afterward a get-together meeting, a sort of "old home" gathering.

Eased His Conscience.

Dean Buckland when at Westminster used to tell a curious story of a crown paper parcel which he received one day by post. After many wrappings had been unfolded he found a small black splinter of oak about an inch and a half long. The writer of the unsigned note accompanying the parcel said that when he was a boy, many years before, he had chipped the splinter off the coronation chair. As age advanced his conscience grew troublesome, and he asked the dean to be kind enough to restore the splinter to its place.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Let Kiddies Blow Bubbles.

There is no better exercise for inducing nasal breathing than blowing bubbles. It is a sheer impossibility to breathe through the mouth and to blow bubbles. In one of the big children's hospitals you may see children daily blowing bubbles, as it helps to expand the lungs and induces deep breathing. Children who blow bubbles frequently at home are not likely to have adenoids.

THIS GIRL PLANNED AND BUILT OWN HOME

Mabel Ballin is a movie star, but that's not the reason for this picture. This picture shows a girl who planned and built her own home, an Italian villa on the banks of the Sagatuck river in Connecticut. The plans were made by her—every bit of them; workmen under her direction did the necessary heavy work. But the painting and decorating and planing, staining and polishing of the floors and the like she did "with her own hands." She played a leading role in "The Spreading Dawn." Before entering the movies Miss Ballin spent several years in Rome studying to be an artist.

Sport Gossip

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 10.—At least eight members of the 1917 University of Minnesota football team will not return to the game next year. Six will graduate in January, one has been drafted for the national army and one is in another branch of military service. Several promising members of this year's freshman squad also plan to enlist before next fall.

George Hauser, fighting captain of the eleven, will join an engineering regiment after his graduation in January. Other gridiron stars who will graduate are Conrad Eklund, tackle; Paul Carroll, halfback; George Bierman, halfback; Elmer Haugland, tackle; and Al Schroeder, and Ray Aldenderfer, halfback, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States infantry. Paul Flinn, end, has been drafted and expects to go with the next contingent.

Trig Johnson, tackle, who went with the national guard to the Mexican border a year ago, expects to be in service again before next fall. V. N. Williams, guard, is a member of the Fourth Minnesota infantry.

Among members of this year's squad who are expected to return to school next year are Ernest Lamph, Neil Arnston and Norman Kingsley.

Columbus, O., Dec. 10.—Frad Fulton, the Rochester, Minn., heavyweight and "Porky" Flynn of Boston, are ready for their 12 round contest here, Dec. 10. It will be their third meeting. In a twenty round affair decided in New Orleans the referee, Tommy Burns gave the verdict to Fulton. The second contest was fought in St. Paul and opinion of boxing critics was divided as to the winner.

St. Louis, Dec. 10.—The four boxing clubs in St. Louis are reported to favor the plan of closing the door on the professional boxers and conduct only amateur tournaments. The promoters are said to be disgusted with the business methods of the professionals and their managers, who seemed to have exaggerated ideas of their worth.

Amateur tournaments, it is pointed out, involve none of the hazards of professionalism, such as disputes over the division of the gate receipts and other wrangles. Amateur contests always have been popular here. According to the plan, the four clubs will conduct one tournament a month.

Louisville, Dec. 10.—Selection of dates for race meetings on Kentucky tracks will be held in abeyance until the recovery of Johnson N. Caunden, chairman of the State Racing commission. Mr. Johnson is ill in a Baltimore hospital and it is reported that he will not be able to attend a meeting before February. The commission will determine when the usual and fall running races will be held at Latonia, Churchill Downs and Douglas park, as well as trotting events at Lexington.

Columbus, O., Dec. 10.—Bryan Downey, the Columbus 142 pounder, will have an opportunity to wrest the welterweight title from Ted Lewis, the champion, when they meet here in a twelve round contest on Dec. 17. Downey has been coming to the front in the welterweight ranks within the last year, having defeated a number of top notchers.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 10.—Vern Clam-moly, catcher with the Louisville club of the American Association, hopes to be clad in the blue of the navy within a month.

The rotund backstop, who plans to enlist as soon as his affairs are straightened will be the first member of the club to volunteer his services. Frank Crosin also a Louisville catcher, was drafted sometime ago and is at Camp Meade.

Racine, Wis., Dec. 10.—Homer Smith, a young Michigan heavyweight measuring six feet, two inches, will attempt to slam his way into ring fame here tonight. He will face Bill Brennan, a Chicagoan, who has a long string of knockouts to his credit in the east. Smith has fought thirty-five contests and has only been beaten once.

Children and Christmas are almost synonymous terms. No one can think of a gift laden Christmas tree or a stocking bulging with presents without thinking of the youngsters.

It is because Christmas is the children's particular feast that the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis is asking the public at this time to think of the little ones, the primary sufferers from tuberculosis, who will benefit by the sale of Red Cross Christmas seals.

These youngsters are not like the sturdy boys and girls whom we associate with Christmas and who push their way through holiday crowds and stand with noses pressed against toy shop windows. Many of them are wrecks of childhood. They are underfed and underdeveloped. They have not the stamina that belongs to childhood. They have all the earmarks of disease.

There are thousands of them in this country, products of poverty and bad housing conditions. Many of them are children of tuberculous parents. If something is not done now to correct the effects of tuberculosis and stay the progress of the disease, the association declares, in a few years they will be tossed on the human scrap heap. They will be consigned to general hospitals and poorhouses if they live.

If the right thing is done for them now they will be sent to a children's hospital or sanatorium, where the disease can be arrested. While they are there they will attend open air classes and go on with their studies. They will get the best medical care and nursing attention. They will grow fat and rosy from outdoor exercise, play and good food.

As time passes and nature does her work they will become normal again, whole in mind and body and ready to take their places with other children of their own age.

Both sides of the picture are presented by the National Association and the American Red Cross, which are co-operating with hundreds of anti-tuberculosis associations for the success of the Red Cross seal sale. The question they are asking is, "Can any community afford to neglect its tuberculous and anemic children when it is within its power to establish preventoria and sanatoria for their care?"

Red Cross seals provide ninety per cent of the financial basis for the educational side of the fight against tuberculosis, an important part of which is the establishing of children's hospitals. By putting on a little extra steam during this holiday season and increasing the sale of the stickers funds can be raised to meet the growing problem of the infected and the border line children.

In many communities children's pavilions and sanatoria have been built with funds raised in former years by the sale of Christmas seals. The stickers have been life savers for the children. They have safeguarded them against disease and put them on the road to useful and efficient citizenship.

Life's Treasure Stores.

Success and contentment begin with the realization that life represents a valuable treasure. We may liken life to a field. At first the owner values it for wild berries; then, ceasing to be a wanderer, he becomes an agriculturist and values it for its rich harvest; a grown wiser still, he discovers that amidst all the treasure, he does not find silver and gold; instead, he sees deeper and lo! the seam is full of diamonds. And every life holds all the stores of underlying and unsuspected stores of treasures.—Rev. Sewall Dwight Hillis.

RETAKE TRENCHES.

Rome, Dec. 10.—The observation trenches which had been lost by the Italians east of Caposile, on the lower Piave line, have been retaken by the Italian forces, the war office announced today.

Finding the Ship at Sea.

When the captain wishes to find the position of his ship he makes a number of determinations of the altitude of the sun with his sextant, bringing its reflection down until it grazes the horizon. The sun's place in the sky is constantly changing, and every altitude means a corresponding local time. He notes the difference between his time and the time of the port he left, or that of Greenwich, and he has his longitude. By a slightly different manipulation of the same figures he finds his latitude. A skillful person can locate a ship within a quarter of a mile of its true position.

Remember Little Kindnesses.

Cultivate a memory for kindnesses. Too many of us are inclined to accept small courtesies and kindnesses as a matter of course, and for that reason they make so little impression upon us that they are soon lost sight of. The people who seem overflowing with faith and affection, and who always have a good opinion of their fellows, are the ones who find it easy to forget injuries, but who hold the kindnesses they have received fast in memory.—Exchange.

Derivation of "Hellespont."

Hellespontus, (meaning the sea of Helle), is the ancient Latin name of the Strait of the Dardanelles, the long, narrow strait connecting the Aegean sea, or eastern part of the Mediterranean, with the Sea of Marmora. The English form of the Latin word Hellespontus is Hellespont. The name is derived from the story of Helle being drowned in the strait.

A Little Mixed.

Evelyn, who was talking to her grandmother, who had come to visit her, saw her grandfather coming and, running to the head of the stairs, she cried: "Come right on up, drump, your drama's up here."

Valuable Skins.

The most expensive fur is that of the black fox of Kamshatka, the skin of which, when dressed, becomes a very attractive blue. A single skin is worth as much as £200. A coat worn by the czar, lined with the fur of the black fox, cost £2,000.—Sheffield Furrier.

Just to Work.

Everything that happens to us leaves some trace behind, writes a philosopher. Everything contributes imperceptibly to make us what we are. Yet it is often dangerous to take a strict account of it. For either we grow proud and negligent, or downcast and dispirited; and both are equally injurious in their consequences. The surest plans is just to do the nearest task that lies before us.

MEETING CALLED OFF.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 10.—The mass meeting of Twin City union labor members to be held in Washington tomorrow in connection with the street car men's controversy, has been called off, it is said, due to prospects that the traction case would be acted on soon by federal officials in Washington. Announcement of the cancellation was made by George Grenville, acting president of the St. Paul Trades and Labor assembly.

The meeting, which nearly all members of local unions were expected

MAKE STARCH FROM POTATOES

By P. G. HOLDEN.

SMALL or rough potatoes should not be thrown away or wasted, for they can easily be converted into potato starch. A complete and easy recipe for making potato starch is given in a bulletin entitled, "Potato Starch and Its Use in the Home," a copy of which can be obtained by addressing O. H. Benson, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Potatoes also may be used in making yeast bread, the following recipe being sufficient for three loaves:

One-half cup milk and water; 4 tablespoons sugar; 1½ teaspoons salt; 4 cups boiled potatoes; 8 cups flour; ½ cake compressed yeast; ½ cup warm water. All the flour may be added in the first mixture, or a part may be reserved and added at the second kneading. The dough is soft after the second handling, but after baking produces a satisfactory loaf.

SUBMARINES NOW HAVE HARD TIME

Activity of Destroyer Convoys Is Producing Most Satisfactory Results.

S MOST EFFECTIVE WEAPON

Diaries Taken From Captured U-Boat Commanders Furnish Documentary Evidence of Effectiveness of Destroyer's Perfect Convey Work.

Base of the American Flotilla in British Waters—Diaries taken from captured U-boat commanders furnish documentary evidence that the destroyer is the most effective of present weapons against the submarine. "Avoided destroyer" is the oft-repeated entry. In fact, these logs show continued that the submarines are having a hard time of it. The result of the destroyer activity during the last four weeks has been not only a decrease in casualties of merchant ships but also a still more satisfactory increase in the number of submarines sunk.

Convoys as an Offensive. The conveying of merchantmen has now reached a stage almost of perfection, after many months' work in training both the officers of merchant ships and the personnel of the patrol flotillas. While systematic conveying was undertaken primarily as a defensive measure, it has now developed that conveying is at the same time the best offensive measure yet devised against the U-boat.

The offensive side of conveying may best be shown by an illustration: When a submarine tries to torpedo a convoyed ship—as submarines are now compelled to do owing to the infrequency of unconvoyed shipping—there is always a destroyer on the scene, and the chances of the destroyer's "getting" that particular submarine are correspondingly increased. The wake of a torpedo is generally seen by the destroyer's lookouts, and it gives a good line on the direction where the submarine is lying. The destroyer immediately steers a course full speed in the line shown by the wake of the torpedo and drops repeated depth charges along this course.

In a considerable proportion of cases this proves effective, for these depth charges cause serious commotion over a considerable radius.

Surface Signs May Be Missing. The correspondent was told of three cases in the last fortnight in which submarines were thus destroyed. In many instances, no doubt, submarines are destroyed without any visible indication above the water of their loss. Still others are badly crippled, as in the case of the damaged German U-boat which was recently interned in Spain.

Another submarine which will never return to Germany was sunk under peculiar circumstances a short time ago. This U-boat torpedoed a ship bound from the United States. It is extremely unwise and unsafe to fire a torpedo at such close range, but the U-boats must take their targets as they get them these days. The torpedoed ship was loaded with a cargo of heavy war material and the explosion was so for-able that it blew a large piece of heavy material through the deck of the ship and dropped it on the submarine as the latter was submerging. The hull of the submarine was crushed like an eggshell and she sank with all on board.

FIRST VOTES FOR WOMEN ELECTION IN NORTH DAKOTA

Fair Sex Will Have Distinctive Ballot and Separate Ballot Boxes December 27

CANDIDATES STATE WHAT THEIR PLATFORMS WILL BE

The first votes for women in city election in North Dakota to be held in Bismarck, little more than two weeks hence, apparently has created little excitement among the suffragettes of the capital city to date. In fact, the women of the capital city who have the qualifications demanded of male voters may cast their ballots for a member of the city commission to succeed R. C. Lattey, finance commissioner. Mr. Lattey resigned upon his removal to Billings to become general manager of the International Harvester Co.'s distributing house at that point. There are two candidates in the field—John A. Larson, manager of the carpenter union, and Harry A. Thompson, proprietor of one of the city's old plumbing establishments and for many years chief of the city fire department.

Ballots distinctive in color and separate ballot boxes will be provided for the women voters December 27. Aside from a difference in color, the ballots will be identical with those supplied male voters. Whether women will be considered in the appointment of election board has not been announced. There is nothing in the law requiring or authorizing this to be done. There is no reason however why women should not have their own inspectors and watchers at the polls if they so desire.

Senate Bill No. 12 introduced at the last session by Senator Lindstrom is based upon an Illinois statute under which women have for several years been voting for officers not named in the state constitution. The constitutionality of the statute has been at stake in Indiana, but it still stands in Illinois.

John A. Larson in submitting his nominative petition says: "The principle which I seek to promote is a justness administration for the city."

Harry A. Thompson's platform is: "An economical administration of municipal affairs."

COMMIT FEARFUL ATROCITIES UPON JEWISH COLONIES

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN, Editor of The American Hebrew.

(Copyright, 1917, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

A recent cablegram from Alexandria, Egypt, stated that refugees from Palestine report that the Turks, in cooperation with the Germans, are committing fearful atrocities upon Jewish colonies in Palestine.

During October all the leading men of the Jewish colony at Jaffa were accused of espionage and on false evidence, or on confession extorted by torture, were convicted by a German court martial and hanged with many members of their families.

To extort confessions, many men and women, including some American citizens, were stripped and beaten in public, some so severely as to cause death. But the end of this reign of terror is in sight.

The triumphal onward sweep in Palestine of the British under General Allenby, has already resulted in the capture of Jaffa, the principal Mediterranean seaport of the Holy Land, and with it the Jaffa Jerusalem railroad, which brings the allied forces almost to the very gates of Jerusalem.

Another force is holding Beersheva, where Abraham rested and at the proper moment will move forward to Hebron, gateway to the Holy City from the southeast. Thus, the British army will be in a position to operate against Jerusalem, either for attack or siege, and Christmas may see the birthplace of the three dominating religions—Christianity, Judaism and Mohammedanism—wrested from the hands of the Turks and a beginning made toward ending these German-Turkish atrocities.

The brilliant operations of Allenby's army has attracted the attention of the whole civilized world, while watching them with sentimental regard, has been not a little mystified by the enormous expenditure of men and military equipment in a war theater so far removed from the western front.

It is not generally realized that the Palestine operations are no mere side-venture on the part of Great Britain, but that they have a tremendous bearing on the ultimate result of the war.

As a matter of fact, there can be no enduring peace unless Palestine and Mesopotamia shall be won from Turkey and its master ally, Germany.

Anything short of this would mean that, even though Germany is completely defeated in Europe, her pretensions Baghdad-to-Berlin scheme would remain intact to menace the world, with its everlasting threat against the Suez canal and India.

None have realized this better than the Germans themselves, who are thoroughly alarmed over the success of the British arms.

They have always realized the great importance of Palestine in connection with their own plans for the military domination of the world, and German publicists have given a great deal of attention to the "Near East" question.

The overthrust Dr. Paul Rohrbach, writing for the education of the German mind and in preparation for the launching of the Mittel Europa project, pointed out that a direct attack upon England, across the North Sea, was utterly out of the question. Another combination, which would strike England at its most vulnerable point, was needed, and this combination, he revealed, existed in Germany's relations to Turkey. It was to create just these relations that Wilhelm visited Constantinople and Jerusalem that he worshiped at the shrine of Mohammed, that he played the role of protector of Turkey against all Europe.

England can be attacked and mortally wounded by land from Europe only in one place—Egypt. The loss of Egypt would mean for England not only the end of her dominion over the Suez Canal and of her connections with India and the far east, but would mean also the loss of her possessions in Central and East Africa. The conquest of Egypt by a Mohammedan power, like Turkey, would also imperil England's hold over her sixty million Mohammedan subjects in India, besides prejudicing her relations with Afghanistan and Persia.

Here we have the explanation of Germany's interest in Turkey, and the German plan, Turkish led campaign against the Suez canal in 1915. This campaign, led over three routes across the desert of the Sinai Peninsula, was planned by Colonel Kress von Kressenstein and led by Djemal Pasha—the same Djemal who later became the tyrannical governor of Palestine.

Victorious at Ismaili, 15 miles below the canal, at Kantara, 30 miles south of Port Said, the British failed to realize the opportunity then presented for the utter rout of the Turkish forces.

But the early mistakes were quickly repaired when General Sir Archibald Murray assumed command of the British forces and following Kitchen's tactics, began building a railway along the Mediterranean sea-coast. In the spring of this year General Murray had advanced to Gaza, where the ending of the rainy season compelled him to halt until fall.

Meanwhile, General Allenby had been sent from the west front, and his successful operations have been conducted according to the strategy outlined by his predecessor.

The next few days ought to develop whether General Allenby plans to strike at Jerusalem along the line of the railroad or to continue his northern course until he has taken Haifa, 60 miles beyond Jaffa. Then his army will march on Jerusalem through the Plains of Esdraelon. This historic plain runs broadly between Mount Naphthali, in Galilee and Mount Ephraim in Samaria, and continuously from Mount Carmel to the Jordan, making it the most important and political military factor in the history of Palestine. It has been the high road of all the invasions of Jerusalem.
